

“I love living in the Seattle area because of its very multicultural environment”

Duong, Nguyen (Kevin), VIETNAM

I was studying at a high school in New Zealand when my parents gave me information about Edmonds Community College. I could pursue my high school studies and earn college credits in the United States. While attending Edmonds CC, the school environment, the professors and the staff did not disappoint me. Everyone was friendly and willing to help me....wherever I go and whenever I have problems.

Besides the valuable lessons from my classes, I have learned to interact with friends and staff from all around the world simply by participating in various activities. I have started my own club and have coordinated with members from many other clubs to do volunteer work or to share our different cultures.

I love living in the Seattle area because of its very multicultural environment. I can find Vietnamese, Thai or any other Asian restaurant along with Western shops in my own neighborhood without any difficulty. Seattle has always been a potential place to study with a great clean healthy environment. Studying at Edmonds CC gives me an opportunity to explore new and interesting activities.

Edmonds CC is where I have learned about the US education system. I have also learned very useful knowledge about living and working abroad that will always continue to be a part of me for the rest of my life. I have always known I made the right decision-I will never regret coming to Edmonds Community College.